DETAILED ACTIONDrawings

The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they include the following reference character(s) not mentioned in the description: reference numerals 8 and 13a. It appears "8" should be ---18---. It appears the specification should be amended to include ---13a---. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d), or amendment to the specification to add the reference character(s) in the description in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(b) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Information Disclosure Statement

The listing of references in the specification is not a proper information disclosure statement. 37 CFR 1.98(b) requires a list of all patents, publications, or other information submitted for consideration by the Office; and MPEP § 609 A(1) states, "the list may not be incorporated into the specification but must be submitted in a separate paper." Therefore, unless the references have been cited by the examiner on form PTO-892, they have not been considered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The specification does not clearly set forth connecting means such that light impinging on the solar panel causes the switch to be in the proper circuit position. Further, it is not clear how light impinging on the solar panel will change the orientation of the switch. What connecting means provides this operation? The specification appears to be silent as to this means or such functioning. Perhaps applicant means that when the switch is on, light impinging on the solar panel will cause sound? Clarification is requested.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 2-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention:

In claim 2, line 2, there is no antecedent basis for "each engagement means". No engagement means has been set forth in claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Hartman et al (US patent publication 2003/0182745).

The publication to Hartman discloses the invention as is claimed, including a music emitting toothbrush (10) having an elongated hollow handle (15) for housing various electronic components, including for example integrated circuits, to control brush operation such as battery recharging, motor operation and audible signals such as music (page 3, paragraph 29). Hartman also discloses that solar panels (page 2, paragraph 20) may be used as a source of energy coupled with the handle. A switch (12) is provided on the side of the handle.

With respect to claim 2, note flange (22) extending from the handle (15) and flange (generally proximal end 36) extending from the head (30). Each are considered to be annular flanges, at least as far as defined, that engage one another.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hartman et al (US patent publication 2003/0182745) in view of Scheiner (US patent 5,572,762).

The publication to Hartman discloses all of the above recited subject matter with the exception of the switch being on the end of the handle.

The patent to Scheiner discloses an electronic musical toothbrush wherein the power switch (30) is provided recessed in an end of the handle (12).

It would have been obvious to one of skill in the art to move the switch of Hartman to the end of the handle, as clearly suggested by Scheiner, to enable activation by tapping the toothbrush against a surface. Such would allow easier activation for a child.
